The marina is situated off Spinut, a suburb of Split, on the N side of the Marjan peninsula, the wooded peninsula at the W end of the city. It is protected from N and W winds by a long breakwater and from E by wavebreak pontoons. Within the marina there are two basins, a large W basin and a smaller E basin. The E basin is operated by the Sportska Lucica Split yacht club. Between the basins there are a total of 780 berths for yachts up to 25 metres and in depths of up to 5.0 metres.

In the area of the marina there are two restaurants, one cafe bar, a shop offering nautical equipment, various services for boats, sailing schools, parking, nice pebble beach... Whole area of the marina is supervised 24 hours. It takes 15 minutes to walk from the marina to the old town of Split.

Navigation/Approach

The marina of Spinut lies on the SE shore of the Kastelanski Zaliv (Bay of Kastela), which is entered between Cape Ciovo at the E extremity of the island of the same name and the wooded peninsula of Cape Marjan two miles W of Split. Once round the Marjan peninsula, being sure to leave a green light buoy just N of Cape Marjan to starboard, continue E along the peninsula. Spinut is the first harbour to be encountered, about a mile E from Cape Marjan. The marina is entered from E between a long breakwater and the wavebreak pontoon of the Sportska Lucica Split yacht club.

Berthing

Berthing assistance available. Yachts berth stern/bows-to where directed on one of 12 long pontoons in the W basin or, if there is space, on the yacht club pontoons in the E basin. Laid moorings at all berths. Maximum depths in the W basin are 5.0 metres but there is little more than 2.0 metres at the inner end of the pontoons. Depths in the E basin are unknown but likely to be 3.0 metres or more.
